Cheetah Learning Asks, “Do you Dare....?”

CARSON CITY, NV, JAN. 19, 2009 – This year, take a dare.

“Project Management is about results,” said Michelle LaBrosse, PMP®, founder of Cheetah Learning (www.cheetahlearning.com). “It’s about making goals and achieving them, no matter how big or impossible they seem. No one epitomizes daring to dream more than Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., who we commemorate this month. He once said, ‘Man is man because he is free to operate within the framework of his destiny. He is free to deliberate, to make decisions, and to choose between alternatives.’”

To help people discover their destiny and achieve it in 2009, Cheetah Learning is providing tools to help those who dare to dream make their dreams happen.

“Through specific skills such as Payback Analysis, we can help people systematically look at their dreams and create an action plan,” said LaBrosse. “Right now, for instance, we at Cheetah are focusing on energy alternatives as solid investments today with payoffs continuing into the future. That’s information we want to share – not only in terms of energy alternatives but in how you can dare to make your own dreams happen.”

LaBrosse’s dreams and drive, combined with her Project Management skills, have helped her company, Cheetah Learning, become an award-winning global provider of education and training for project managers. Tens of thousands of Cheetah students have used their Project Management professional training to improve their personal and professional lives.

Cheetah Learning is a global provider of education and training for project managers and was named the 2008 Professional Development Provider of the Year by the Project Management Institute. Some of the tools offered by the company are:
